The Opportunity

Who are we looking for?

We are looking to recruit a suitably qualified Historic Environment Consultant for its multidisciplinary team in Market Harborough, Leicestershire. This is an exciting consultancy opportunity which offers a chance to work in a successful and established archaeology and historic environment team on a range of stimulating and challenging projects, and further your own career and expertise in a supportive multidisciplinary practice.

Role and Requirements

This post may appeal to an archaeologist or heritage professional in the early stages of their consultancy career. The successful candidate will work as part of TEP's heritage team and in collaboration with multi-disciplinary teams and other environmental specialists to deliver successful projects.

The role involves providing advice on archaeology and the historic environment to a wide range of clients involved in energy, residential, commercial, private and public sectors. Our projects include the assessment of buried archaeology, historic landscapes, built heritage, and the management of fieldwork projects.

Key responsibilities will be the production of desk-based assessments and heritage statements, specification of archaeological mitigation measures, the provision of technical advice to clients and colleagues and providing support to the wider heritage team within TEP.

The successful candidate will be expected to travel from time to time, including staying overnight at different locations, to meet the requirements of projects.

We envisage that this will be a full-time role for a working week of 37.5 hours, although we are willing to consider flexible working arrangements.

TEP is an Investors in People Gold Standard employer. The post offers a great opportunity for career progression, with in-house mentoring and support in a professional service area that TEP is keen to expand.
